A "LOW BRIDGE" ACCIDENT.

John Lyon Knocked from a Vandalia Train and Killed.

Monday night John Lyon, aged twenty-three years, residing at Lima, O., was knocked from the Vandalia train No. 7, leaving this city at 11:20 o'clock, at Eagle creek and instantly killed. Lyon and two companions who have been tramping around the country for some time boarded the train at the Belt railroad and climbed on top of the passenger cars to elude the brakeman. One of his companions knew that the bridge at Eagle creek was low, and he shouted out to his companion to "lay low" as the train passed over the bridge. Lyon did not heed the warning, but continued in an upright position, and was swept from the train by one of the cross timbers. His companions climbed down into the coach and informed the trainmen. The train was stopped and the two returned to the city and told of the mishap. Coroner Beck was informed. He went out to the creek on an engine and found Lyon lying on the bank with his head crushed into a pulp. The coroner stated that Lyon's death was instantaneous. Yesterday morning Coroner Beck telegraphed to Lyon's brother at Lima, but as yet has received no reply. It was learned that Lyon was a tailor and had left Lima some time ago, being unable to secure employment there.

DASHED FROM A BUGGY.

Mrs. George Newport Seriously Injured by a Runaway.

Yesterday afternoon, about 4 o'clock, Mrs. George Newport, residing at No. 1261, North Mississippi street, was seriously injured in a runaway at the corner of Seventh and Alabama streets. She and several friends were driving out to Crown Hill, and had reached Seventh street, when the horse became frightened and started. Mrs. Newport was driving, but was unable to check the animal, which dashed along at a frightful speed. Finally the horse was stopped, throwing Mrs. Newport and her friends violently to the ground. No one was injured except Mrs. Newport, who was removed to the office of Dr. John Lambert, a short distance away, where her injuries were found to consist of lacerations, bruises and sprains. She was removed to her home.

REFUSE TO PAY THE SCALE.

Contractors Decide to Give Carpenters but 25 Cents an Hour.

About twenty-five contractors met at the Builders' Exchange last night and considered, in a private meeting, the recent demands of the carpenters' union for eight hours and 30 cents an hour. It was finally decided that the schedule wages should be 33 cents an hour for competent men, and this offer will be tendered to the union. The contractors made no mention of the hour schedule.

At the meeting of the carpenters' union, on Sunday, when the new scale was adopted, seven hundred carpenters were present. It is probable a meeting will be held soon to consider the action of the contractors.

Reception to Secretary Robson.

The Hoosier Council of the Royal Arcanum, assisted by the other councils of the city, gave a reception to W. O. Robson, of Boston, the grand secretary of the order, at its hall, corner of Illinois and Seventh streets, last night. Henry Spain welcomed Mr. Robson on behalf of the city. The hall-headed Glee Club rendered several selections. Mr. Robson is on his way to Terre Haute, where the councils throughout the State will hold an annual convention.

Phoebe B. Smith's Will.

The will of Phoebe B. Smith was yesterday admitted to probate. The document was executed in Johnson county, and names as executors John Johnson, Mary B. Logan and the decedent's estate. One year after her death she desires all of her Marion county property sold and every cent between her daughters, Sarah J. Holloway and Annie L. Monroe, and her daughter-in-law, Jennie Smith.

Monument Elevator Rules.

The monument elevator will probably not be ready for passengers until to-morrow. The elevator is to be examined every three months by an insurance company. The car is to make round trips every ten minutes, beginning with the hour, only six passengers being permitted to make the trip at one time and not more than twenty people will be admitted to the turret at one time.

SOME STATE POLITICS

Enormous Crowds Coming to the Republican Convention.

Free Silver Democrats—Brown and Stockslager—Warm Congressional Fights in Three Districts.

It is not often that there is so much political activity in the Republican party, even a month preceding election day, as there is among the Republicans of Indiana just now, three weeks before the State convention. Almost every one of the thirty-eight candidates for places on the State ticket is canvassing the State and making speeches daily. The contest is an entirely good-natured one, and as there are anywhere from five to eight candidates for each nomination, each man realizes that the chances are at least three to one against him, and understands that, if he is defeated, he will have plenty of good company.

The State convention on the 26th promises to be the biggest political gathering Indiana has ever seen. There will be at least ten thousand and probably fifteen thousand people here, all of whom will be customers of the hotels, and a light estimate indicates that the convention is worth at least $50,000 to the city of Indianapolis. As yet, however, there has been no effort upon the part of the Commercial Club or any other organization to make any special arrangements for entertaining the crowds. The arrangements for the convention, however, are complete, and the crowd will be well cared for in every particular but one, and that is admission to the convention hall. It is next to impossible to crowd as many as five thousand people into Tomlinson Hall at one time, and the State committee has a big problem on its hands in endeavoring to satisfy the demands for admission tickets. About two thousand people will be seated on the main floor of the hall and one thousand more can be comfortably disposed of in the gallery. The rest must be disposed of on the stage and in the "standing room." Inasmuch as there are 3,450 delegates and alternates to be taken care of, it will be seen that the seats at the disposal of the committee are exceedingly limited in number, for, aside from delegates and alternates, there must be room left for a large number of newspaper men, and still the delegates and for a reasonable number of their friends. The convention could get along more comfortably in a hall twice as large as Tomlinson.

CONGRESSIONAL CONTESTS.

Dates for Republican Conventions—Cooper Will Probably Be Defeated.

The Republicans will hold three of their congressional conventions during this month. The first of these is that of the Sixth district, which will convene at Muncie on Thursday, April 12. There will be little excitement about this, as the renomination is conceded to Henry U. Johnson, the present Representative of the district. He has made an excellent record in Congress, and the Sixth district usually shows its wisdom by sending good men to Congress and keeping them there for a long period of time. However, it is likely to be a large convention. The Republicans are fond of getting together and having a good time this year, and it is probable that the Muncie convention will attract a big crowd.

The next will be that of the Second district, at Mitchell, on the following Tuesday, April 17. This is likely to develop into a very lively contest between A. L. Hardy, of Washington, and James H. Welton, of Vincennes. On the same day the joint senatorial convention of Jackson and Lawrence counties, and the joint Representative convention of Madison, Marion and Dubois will be held, and there is likely to be a great gathering of the clans from all over the Second district.

On Thursday, the 19th, two days later, there will be a similar but probably much larger gathering at Evansville. There the First district congressional convention will be held, and on the same date the Gibson and Spencer counties joint senatorial convention, and the Knox, Gibson and Vanderburgh joint Representative convention will also be held, all in Evansville. Though there are some interesting contests in these minor conventions, the congressional fight in the First district is overshadowing everything else. At present the victory seems to lie between Messrs. E. W. Harmon, of Booneville, and Capt. A. T. Twynne, of Evansville. Capt. Twynne was the nominee in 1892. Captain McCutcheon, of Evansville, Fred P. Leonard, Mayor of Mount Vernon, and Capt. T. J. Truescott, of Harmony, will also get votes in the convention, and it is possible that the lightning may strike one of them. It is said that Posey will go into the convention with more votes on the start than any other candidate, but the friends of Mr. Harmon and Twynne are claiming that the strength of the other candidates will come to them before the convention. The convention cannot make a mistake in nominating any of the men before it, and while the contest has not the elements of a close fight, it is entirely good natured, it is one of the prettiest political fights that has been seen in Indiana for the longer time.

Another remarkably interesting congressional contest is that of the Fifth district. It is pretty sure that Cooper will be renominated, and the Republicans feel very confident of defeating him. As long as three months ago an active campaign for the nomination began between Elder Z. T. Sweeney, of Columbus, Mayor C. B. Case, of Greencastle, Hon. Jesse Overstreet, of Franklin, and Capt. Enoch Fuller, of Bloomington. There was also considerable talk of running Nat. C. Hill, of Bloomington, but he has never been formally announced as a candidate. The counties are just now engaged in electing congressional delegates, and the friends of Overstreet have stolen something of a march on Elder Sweeney by capturing some of the delegates in his own (Bartholomew) county, where they have been electing them by a large majority.

An interesting development in the fight came a week or two ago, when Blue River town, in Franklin county, Indiana, named another candidate than Mr. Overstreet, Judge Johnson, of Ellettsburg, and now comes another interesting event, the announcement of the candidacy of Hon. W. F. Norton, of Columbus, who has his castor into the ring, and will divide the Bartholomew county delegates with Sweeney. Case will go into the convention with Putnam county solid, and with some votes from Owen county, but most of the delegation of Owen and Brown counties will be divided between Overstreet and Sweeney. Fuller will have the Monroe county delegation solid, or nearly so. Morgan county is in this fashion, it is probable that Hendricks county will be divided between Sweeney and Overstreet, but this is the first definite step which has been taken in the field have the best of it in that county. The convention will be held at Muncie on May 10, and it is likely to prove "mighty interesting."

In the city yesterday on business, but found time to call at the State committee headquarters, Mr. Montgomery, who has frequently mentioned as the probable Republican candidate for Congress in the district, but who would not actively seek the nomination, he would not decline it if tendered him, and he has the least objection to the nomination in the district, however, said he. "The nomination will not go begging this year," Professor Jordan, the nominee in 1892, also frequently mentioned, and there are several dark horses ready to be called out. The red-hot fight for the Democratic nomination between Brown and Stockslager has ripped the Democracy up from one end of the district to the other. Brown is likely to be defeated for the nomination, his friends are in control of the party machine, and through the district, and most of them carry razors in their bootlegs. But this factional quarrel will not have nearly as much effect upon the vote of the district as will the current dissatisfaction with the Democratic administration. Aside from the industrial depression, the Democrats are weakened by the worst set of Federal appointments ever made in southern Indiana, and the dissatisfaction over them, which, by the way, is the most potent factor in Brown's defeat—is constantly growing more intense. Instead of trying out then, to cap the climax, came the veto of the Ransom bill, which was exceedingly distasteful to southern Indiana Democrats. It mattered whether the Democratic nominee to the Third be Brown or Stockslager, he must, if he desires any hope of success, declare openly against the Cleveland financial policy.

Free Silver and Democracy.

And, by the way, it would be surprising to most residents of Indianapolis to know what a tremendous hold upon the Indiana Democracy the free silver heresy has. It will be remembered that in 1890 the Democratic State platform declared openly for free silver, and the resolution went through the convention with a whoop. Though the financial question was smothered in the platform of 1892, the free silver sentiment was just as strong in the convention as it was in 1890, and it just as strong today in the party throughout the State. After the "vacuum bill" got started in the House in 1893, it was a while before a Democrat in Indiana that did not applaud it, not even excepting the State organ, the Indianapolis Sentinel. Though most of the Indiana Democratic press has "cuckooed" to the veto, Democrats are expressing themselves privately throughout the State in no uncertain terms, and it is a good, safe bet that the efforts of the leaders this year will be unavailing in keeping a free silver plank out of the platform. The Populists exact to take advantage of this sentiment, and hope to gather in a large number of Democrats to their cause. They will, of course, declare for free and unlimited coinage of silver, as well as unlimited issues of paper money. It is doubtful, however, whether they will gain any votes by it. The chances are that nine-tenths of the disgruntled Democrats will either stay at home or seek revenge by voting the straight Republican ticket.

CALLED HIM TO ROME

Bishop F. S. Chatard, of This Diocese, Departs for the Vatican.

Secrecy Maintained as to the Trip—Rumors about the Cause of the Papal Call.

About two weeks ago Bishop F. S. Chatard, of the diocese of Vincennes, was summoned to Rome by Pope Leo. The matter was kept secret in order that the Bishop would be spared the interviewer. Appointments were made by the Bishop for 1 o'clock yesterday, but when the visitors went to keep it, it was found that the Bishop had left for Baltimore, en route to Italy, early in the morning.

It was rumored that he had been suddenly summoned to a conference on the subject of parochial schools, which has been agitating the country recently through various channels. Other rumors were to the effect that the dioceses of Vincennes and Fort Wayne were to be consolidated and an archbishop was to be appointed over the whole. Since there has been so much said in regard to the condition and progress of the Roman Catholic Church in this country lately, the summons from the Pope was thought to be of great importance.

A reporter for the Journal called at the episcopal residence, on North Meridian street, yesterday afternoon and had a talk with Mr. Besonnes.

"Can you tell me why Bishop Chatard has been called to Rome?" Father Besonnes was asked.

"It is the custom in our church for the bishops to go to Rome every ten years to report to the Pope the condition of the diocese," he replied.

"Is there any significance in the Bishop going earlier than usual?"

"He has gone earlier, for it is not yet ten years since he was last at the Vatican, but there is nothing significant in that fact."

"Has the Bishop gone directly to Rome?"

"He went from here to Baltimore, and from there to Rome. He will arrive on Saturday he will sail for Rome. I do not remember the name of the vessel, but it is the very first one that goes direct."

"Will he be gone long?"

"It is for only a short trip, and we expect him to return in June."

"Is it at all probable that the Bishop will be transferred to any other station?"

"No, I think not. He will be some change of the diocese, but the Bishop will not be sent away."

"Will he be called to Rome anything to do with the condition of the parochial school question?"

"No, whatever. He may be consulted about it, but there is no plan."

"So the rumor that there was some unusual change of the Bishop to go to Rome was not much foundation?"

"No, as I said, the bishops are required to go to Rome every ten years, and there is nothing special in Bishop Chatard being summoned. Other bishops of the country have been called also, and one in the country will go every ten years."

Bishop Chatard will no doubt have a consultation with Cardinal Gibbons, who lives at Baltimore, before sailing for Italy. There was considerable talk recently of consolidating the dioceses of Vincennes, Fort Wayne and others together, and appointing an archbishop over them. It is reported that Bishop Chatard was the probable archbishop in case this was done. He has devoted not only a great many years, which came to him by inheritance from his family, towards the betterment of the church, but he has also been very active in the cause of the church in America, gives unusual significance, it is claimed, to Bishop Chatard's call to Rome. He is said to be a very old and feeble, it is said, and does not give audience to as many as he did in his earlier papal life.

TO ERECT AN ART MUSEUM.

Art Association Takes Steps Towards Securing a Home.

A business meeting of the Art Association was held yesterday afternoon at the Propylaeum. The meeting was to elect directors to fill the places made vacant by the expiration of the term of several of the officials. It resulted in the election of Messrs. H. C. Long and G. F. Adams, Messrs. Frank Landers, Maj. W. J. Richards, Mrs. A. B. Mansur, Mr. C. E. Coffin, Mr. G. P. Adams and Mrs. A. J. Beveridge. Mr. Hyde made an address, reviewing the work of the year, which has not been any more satisfactory, financially, than many other societies. Mr. Hyde urged the necessity of providing a permanent home for the association, and a committee was appointed to select a site and to secure the necessary funds. The committee will report at the next meeting.

Mr. Hyde's suggestion for a home was acted upon, and a committee consisting of Messrs. C. E. Coffin, D. P. Erwin, W. J. Richards, H. C. Long and G. F. Adams, Messrs. Frank Landers, Maj. W. J. Richards, Mrs. A. B. Mansur, Mr. C. E. Coffin, Mr. G. P. Adams and Mrs. A. J. Beveridge. Mr. Hyde made an address, reviewing the work of the year, which has not been any more satisfactory, financially, than many other societies. Mr. Hyde urged the necessity of providing a permanent home for the association, and a committee was appointed to select a site and to secure the necessary funds. The committee will report at the next meeting.

Lectured the Officers.

In the Police Court yesterday morning Sander Trubee, arrested for assault and battery with intent to kill Len Good, was arraigned and held for the action of the grand jury.

Charles Buser, a grocer at 49 Yandies street, was charged with the assault on Good, and was discharged. The officers had arrested the wrong man, as was clearly shown by the evidence. The officers were blundered by Acting Judge Bradbury.

The Stovepipe Fell Down.

Yesterday afternoon about 1 o'clock considerable excitement was furnished by a false alarm of fire being sent in from the Occidental Hotel. Smoke was seen rolling out from a second-story window and the immediately caused the belief that the building was on fire. Patrolmen Duty and Kruger made their way to the room and found that a stovepipe had fallen down. They repaired it and stopped the smoke.

Urging the Exemption Clause.

About three thousand members of building associations in the State, through the efforts of the Saving and Loan Association League, have sent petitions to the Senate urging the adoption of the exemption clause in the Indiana tax bill as reported by the House. The league in the different States have been forwarding petitions of like character.

Now the College of Music.

The School of Music has changed its title to that of College of Music. The change is made because the former title has been considerably misapprehension as to the institution. A special manager, Mr. J. M. Dungan, of Franklin, Ind., will be in charge of the college, and will secure for the college a self-supporting basis.

Commercial Club Directors Act on the Mayor's Recommendation.

Committee to Investigate the Surface Protection Question—The "American" State Fair Attraction.

The board of directors of the Commercial Club met in regular monthly session yesterday afternoon, at 4 o'clock. Several months ago a meeting was held in the Statehouse to devise some method of entertaining and holding over night the outside visitors to the State fair. One of the suggestions was that the Commercial Club should be organized to take care of the visitors. President Lilly, of the Commercial Club; President Whitman, of the Board of Trade, and President Sankey, of the State Board of Agriculture, were appointed a committee to arrange for the affair. Yesterday Mayor Denny, chairman of the committee, sent a communication to the board recommending the spectacular show of "American" as the feature at night to hold the visitors. President Sankey and Secretary Kennedy, of the State Board of Agriculture; W. S. Holton and Charles Harkinson, agents of the company handling the show, were present to discuss the matter with the board.

Mr. Harkinson at first stated that the company would produce the show in this city for two weeks at a cost of $30,000, which sum should be guaranteed by the Commercial Club. After some discussion over the amount, Mr. Harkinson reduced his price to $20,000. He stated that the actual cost to the company while producing the show in this city could not be estimated less than $4,000. He also stated that the company would need altogether about four hundred persons. The company numbers 107 regular members. The remainder will be hired from people residing in this city. He guaranteed that if the show was not given as produced in Cincinnati, which included a great display of fireworks and other scenic effects, the company would not hold the Commercial Club to their guarantee for the payment of $20,000. He added that the citizens would be given an opportunity of seeing the show one week before the regular engagement of the two weeks. The matter was referred to the committee on assemblies. The finance committee reported that there was a balance in the treasury of $3,655.81.

President Lilly then addressed the meeting as follows:

"The recent message of the Mayor of Indianapolis recommending the construction of a number of viaducts over the tracks of the Union Railway Company emphasizes the necessity of additional means of safe communication between the North and South ends of the city. The most important unsolved problem affecting the future welfare of the people of the city government and the associated railways a feasible plan can be found by which the railways may be elevated, and the city government may thus give the people unobstructed surface travel. The fact that we have built one viaduct, and that it is the most expensive, laborious and conscientious investigation and a right solution of this subject."

"In line with the suggestion of the Mayor, I take this opportunity to direct the attention of the members of the Commercial Club to the subject, with the hope that they will interest themselves in actively bringing to the attention of the city government the dangers and inconveniences of the railroad crossings. It seems to me desirable that as soon as possible the city government should be made, with a view to gathering and placing before the public all obtainable facts in regard to the matter."

I suggest that as a move toward the right solution of the problem the directors of the Union Railway Company be requested to make, to embrace the gathering of information, not only as to the local situation, but also as to other cities, with reference to viaducts and elevated tracks, and that a full report be submitted to the club for its consideration. It is possible in time for consideration and discussion at the club meeting or dinner to be held on Thursday, April 12, at 7 o'clock. This purpose may be accomplished by the directors of the club for necessary expenses, not to exceed $100. A committee was appointed to consider the matter, and will report at an early date. Upon its constitution and by laws offered several amendments, which were adopted.

Commercial Club's Dinner.

The Commercial Club's first monthly dinner at the Hotel P. Conde Implement Company, No. 27 to 33 North Tennessee street, opposite the Statehouse. They have the best wheels on earth and are selling them cheaper than anybody else, as they do not depend upon that trade for a living.

In high grade machines they show the Bolipae and the Monarch and have wheels for adults, misses, youths and boys at surprisingly low prices. One can buy on payments and terms are made to suit purchasers.

No other house can make such inducements, and now is the time to buy.

On Thursday, April 12, the Commercial Club will give an opening exhibit of their handsome stock of vehicles. Fifteen thousand invitations have been issued, and music and flowers have been provided.

TWO YOUTHFUL FORGERS.

They Come to This City and Fall in the Arms of the Police.

Wayne and Leopold Hutchins are two youthful brothers, residing in Selma, a small town six miles from Muncie, but whose appearance betrays their intelligence, for they succeeded in swindling the Delaware county Bank, at Muncie, out of $155.18 on Monday, in a way that would give credit to a experienced swindler. Monday morning the brothers called at the bank and presented two checks amounting to the above sum, and drawn on D. Conmack & Co., grain dealers in Muncie. As the bank was crowded and the appearance of the youths was in their favor, the cashier did not hesitate in handing over the cash. The brothers had forged the checks, which were written in anything but a business hand.

Having received the money dishonestly, the city and indulged in hair cuts and new suits of overalls. They went to the Indiana Bicycle Company and bought two second hand bicycles. Thomas McClintock, a cousin, resides at No. 221 North Noble street, and they went to his home in the evening. They remained during the night and displayed a large roll of bills. In the morning, McClintock, who believed that they had obtained the money dishonestly, for they were never known to have had such a large sum of money in their possession, at a moment's notice, he called the police station, and reported the matter. The officers had obtained the money unlawfully. They took the brothers to the police station in the morning, where they confessed the story of the forgery.

Superintendent Powell communicated with the Muncie authorities and received word to hold them. They will be taken to Muncie to-day. One of the bank officials called at the police station, last night, and stated that the brothers had stolen blank checks which bore the private stamp of the company, from the office of D. Conmack & Co., and the clerk, noticing this mark on the two checks, believed them to be genuine.

Kraft Homestead Destroyed.

Yesterday morning the old Kraft homestead at Maywood, was totally destroyed by fire. On the discovery of the fire, a call for assistance was sent to this city and the West Indianapolis chemical responded, but it arrived after the fire had completed its work. The origin was traced to a defective fuse. It was one of the finest and largest farm houses in the Maywood township. The loss is estimated at $30,000.

AN EVANGELICAL CONFERENCE.

Bishop Bowman, of Chicago, to Preside at the Meeting Here.

Bishop Thomas Bowman, of Chicago, will preside at the forty-second conference of the Indiana Evangelical Association, which is to convene at the church, corner of East and New York streets, on Thursday morning, at 9 o'clock. Yesterday the examination of the junior preachers began, there being fifteen of the juniors at the examination. There will be about seventy-five ministers at the conference. The city and county societies are expected to send a large delegation. The last year has been very prosperous one for the association. A camp-meeting ground of forty acres has been purchased in Kosciusko county, on Turkey lake, at a cost of $5,000. Rev. J. E. Stoops, of Washington, is in the city and contemplates returning to this State. Rev. S. B. King, S. E. Beverly and G. B. Specht have died during the year. About thirty years ago the conference held a session in this city.

Sold Louisville Lottery Tickets.

John Smith, colored, was arrested yesterday by patrolmen Leppert and Kurtz on a charge of selling lottery tickets. When arrested Smith was working the citizens on West Washington street. For a number in a chance to win $10,000, he was charged. It is thought that the lottery company is located in this city, though Smith stated that it was in Louisville.

A Fight at Ben Davis.

Alonso Smaught was brought to the county jail yesterday from Ben Davis, where he had been fined $1 and costs, amounting to $38.45, by Justice of the Peace Osman, on two charges of assault and battery on a citizen of Ben Davis.
